How do you get the data off FieldKit?

You can use the FieldKit mobile app to connect to your station and download data directly to your mobile device. Once you have internet access, you can then use the app to upload the data to the FieldKit Portal.

Long term, we plan for in-app data sync settings to provide the option to automate this. Eventually, you will also be able to have your FieldKit automatically upload data over WiFi from a connected location if it is on a WiFi network.

Additionally, a FieldKit LoRaWAN option is currently in development and not yet for sale, but we have a prototype that we are currently testing.
